

who

whom

who

whom

extra

knowing who
from whom

when referring to one

"doing the doing"

use the SUBJECT form

subject form

Where you would use

I

HE

SHE

YOU

WE

THEY

use

WHO

knowing who
from whom

when referring to one

having the "doing done to it"

use the OBJECT form

object form

Where you would use

ME

HIM

HER

YOU

US

THEM

use

WHOM

avoid dangling prepositions

Not

Who should I give this to?

But

To whom should I give this?

Not

Who are you going with?

But

With whom are you going?

BUT REMEMBER

They're just the rules

and rules can - and should - be broken

simon@1extraword.com

www.1extraword.com